

BAILY, Patrick; Margaret

Patrick Baily trained as a chartered accountant in the United Kingdom and moved to Hong Kong in the 1950s to work for China Light (CLP). He and his wife Margaret lived happily in Hong Kong and returned to the UK in the late 1960s.

Interview date: 2008/12/19

Keyword: CLP, Whampoa Dock

Patrick Baily narrates his move to colonial Hong Kong in the 1950s and his work experience at China Light, which was at that time staffed mostly by expatriates. Relates the computerisation process in the company and his role as Chief Accountant.

Margaret narrates her own experience in Hong Kong, including her work at Whampoa Dock Company and her Chinese language studies.

Interviewer: Amelia Allsop

I264