

LOBO, Lady Margaret

Lady Margaret Lobo (née Choa) was born and raised in Hong Kong. She spent the war years working for the American Fourteenth Air Force in China.

Interview date: 2009/08/25

Keyword: Japanese Occupation, Kai Tak Airport

Talks of her parents, her childhood growing up in a mansion in Hong Kong and her early education at a French convent. Recalls her memories of the Japanese occupation and the bombing of Kai Tak Airport. Recounts her work as a stenographer for the Fourteenth Air Force in China and voyage on Liberty ships before the end of the war. Speaks of her life after the war and social life in Hong Kong in the 1960s.

Interviewer: Amelia Allsop

I316